

East Hagbourne

Mentioned in a charter of King Alfred (891) as HACCABURN and in the Domesday Book as HACHEBURNE. Hacca was probably an Anglo-Saxon chieftain and his brook still flows through the village.

